

Why I Plant Trees

"I plant trees because it's a natural, simple and effective way to protect our rivers, streams and groundwater. Trees absorb and hold rain, clean the air, give food and shelter to wildlife and make our city even more beautiful. We should all be Friends of Trees."

Dan Saltzman
Portland City Commissioner
Bureau of Environmental Services

For 20 years, Friends of Trees has planted trees and restored natural areas across the Portland-Vancouver metro area. Our thousands of volunteers have planted hundreds of thousands of trees. All these trees remove pollutants from the air and keep stormwater from polluting our rivers. While other major U.S. cities have lost significant tree cover, Portland's tree canopy has grown. We need your help. Friends of Trees is only successful because of our volunteers and supporters.
